

SUPPLEMENT COLOR CHARTS ///

Kremer Pigment Color Charts are produced by hand using the screen printing process. Except for a few special cases, the original pigments are bound in an aqueous binder based on gum arabic (#63300). As a result, the color shade of the pigment is hardly changed. Exceptions are pigments that cannot be processed in this binder, such as dragon's blood and copper resinate. Watercolor and XSL-pigment swatches are applied by hand with a brush.

All color charts are delivered in a fileable document folder. The color samples are printed on acid-free 180 gram paper. The individual sheets in DIN A4 format can be placed next to each other and compared as desired. The pages are unperforated, so that you can either file the individual charts yourself or keep them unperforated in the original folder.

OPACITY

All colors are applied in one layer. Part of the paper was previously printed with a gray scale to show the opacity of the pigments. The gray stripes have an ink coverage of 0 %, 25 %, 50 % and 75 %.

The more opaque a pigment is, the less visible these gray scales are.
